Chrome (Default): I have been using this browser the whole time this is what I've been expecting to see. I figured there would be some small formatting issues, via something things being a different default.

Firefox: Everything was good but the margin was messed up for the input side. I did a little to fix it by increasing the margin but it still doesn't completely resemble the chrome formatting. The other big difference was the Submit button now saying "Submit Query". I was experimenting with adjusting it to be a button with the type submit or trying to better define the text within the submit button.

Brave: Nothing of note for this one worked exactly like my Chrome browser